Haven of Hope

Haven of Hope is a cancer retreat for people with all types of cancer.

For: people who experience some form of treatments (chemotherapy, radiation or surgery) before, during, or after; as well as those with recurrent cancers.

What: a venue where people can dialog openly with others who are having similar experiences and can truly understand.

Why: there is no other support group in this area—of this kind—strictly supporting only those with cancer.

Who should attend: anyone who has cancer or is in remission.

Informal Networking

Invitation Only:

occasionally we will expand our group to include caregivers, families and friends, social workers, doctors, nurses, and nursing students to learn more from those living with cancer.

We may visit other support groups in the surrounding area to learn from them.
